PUBLICATIONS

Lacunae and its meaning in the Intercultural Communication (Ukrainian) – 2022

This publication is about the concept of "lacuna, which signifies the absence of an equivalent word in another language. These linguistic gaps serve as reflections of cultural barriers that make communication and understanding between cultures more difficult.

Translating transformations as helpful tools in translator's work (Ukrainian) – 2022

The article explores the role of translation transformations, particularly in literary translation, which involves a complex and multifaceted process. George Orwell's "Animal Farm" illustrates how translation transformations, including changes in titles, character names, and phrases, are utilized to effectively convey the intended meaning and cultural nuances.

Polysemy as one of main problems in the process of translation the literary text (Ukrainian) – 2023

Translators often encounter the challenge of ambiguity in certain terms during the translation process, known as polysemy, which is one of the main barriers between the translator and accurate written translation. Polysemy complicates understanding the text's essence for both translators and readers alike.

Paronyms in translation (Ukrainian) – 2023

Paronyms in translation present challenges due to their similar spelling and pronunciation but different meanings. These linguistic nuances require translators to carefully select the correct interpretation based on context, as misinterpretations can lead to inaccurate translations.

Advertising slogans: impact, perception and reproduction (Ukrainian) – 2023

Advertising slogans have historically been a powerful tool for influencing individuals regardless of age, gender, or values, often leading consumers to perceive advertised products as immediate necessities due to their perceived quality and popularity. Commercial advertising on television encourages viewer engagement and memorization through effective slogans. The influence of these slogans on consumer perception and behavior is significant.

Nonverbal means of communication as important factors of managing a successful communication (Ukrainian)

– 2023

The publication discusses how nonverbal cues are important for successful communication. It explains that these cues convey information that words are not able to express appropriately. It also demonstrates different types of nonverbal communication and how they affect emotions, understanding between people, and the possibility of misunderstandings across different cultures.

Communicative roles and their importance in communication (Ukrainian) – 2024

The publication explores the communicative roles and their significance in interpersonal communication. It emphasizes how communicants adopt specific roles influenced by various internal and external factors, such as age, life experience, gender, social status, and educational background.
